Red, blue, green and gold ribbon day for Premier

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

Lac La Biche-St. Paul MLA Ray Danyluk conducted Premier Ed Stelmach and cavalcade of cabinet ministers and MLAs on a whirlwind tour of Elk Point on Thursday, pausing for brief tours of four facilities where the premier cut three ribbons and a strip of quarter-inch steel plate to officially open two new and two renovated buildings.

The Northern Lights Library System headquarters, where extensive renovations are now coming to an end, was the first stop on the tour, and following the cutting of the ceremonial ribbon, proud director Mircea Paciuk led the premier on a circuit of the enlarged and rearranged headquarters, where books and other library materials are processed and shipped to the 42 member libraries. This "heartbeat of Northern Lights" is also the central facility for information technology that links the libraries to each other and the world beyond.

A short walk down a simple corridor brought the entourage into a former oil-field warehouse that is now an elegant Arts and Leisure Centre that led MLA Danyluk to quip, "the Jubilee Auditorium has nothing on us. It's a great facility for drama presentations, choir concerts, weddings and community events," with its newly completed kitchen facilities with adjoining area for buffet service. The Elk Point

Regional Allied Arts Society joined the dignitaries on stage for the ribbon cutting ceremony.

The first of two new structures on the tour was the Elk Point Tourist Information EcoCentre. After sharing the ribbon cutting honour with Elk Point Chamber of Commerce president Sandy Smith, the premier checked out the computer showing power being produced at that moment by the wind turbine, and later was escorted downstairs by alternate energy technician Andy Viel to see the system that transforms power from the turbine and solar panels into current to furnish the building's electrical needs and feed excess power through a reverse meter onto the conventional power grid. "This is only the second microgeneration system of its kind in Alberta, with both wind and solar," Viel noted.

The final stop was the new Elk Point Fire Hall, where the premier was backed up by a lineup of smartly attired volunteer firefighters as he used the Jaws of Life to effortlessly snip a strip of steel plate to mark the official opening of the imposing structure.

The fire hall was the venue for speeches regarding all four grand openings.

Danyluk emceed the program, and declared, "We have a great community and we're so proud of it. Elk Point is all about volunteerism and working together to get things done."

Danyluk introduced Minister of Service Alberta Heather Klimchuk, "the Supernet queen, the communications guru of Alberta" and Bonnyville - Cold Lake MLA Genia Leskiw, who were along on the tour and who had assisted with the ribbon cutting ceremonies at some of the stops.

Mayor Parrish Tung welcomed the distinguished visitors and noted, "It is indeed a pleasure to be able to say our thanks in person. All these groups had their dreams, and chose to create their dreams."

County of St. Paul Reeve Robert Bouchard said it was "a pleasure for the county to look at what has been accomplished in Elk Point. Their volunteer base is the only way these projects could ever happen." He acknowledged the contribution of former administrator Kim Hayman, who "spent a lot of time" on the Allied Arts project, and noted that the new fire hall, a joint project of the county and town, was "long overdue."

All of the projects, the reeve said, "wouldn't have happened without government and municipal cooperation. We appreciate the position we were put in by the province because of the Municipal Sustainability Initiative funding. Without it, we simply wouldn't have had the money for these projects."

"We've heard a lot about partnerships," said Larry Tiedmann, chair of the Northern Lights board. "We have 53 municipalities in Northern Lights, it's all about partnerships. Three systems formed TRAC, and it's this that keeps libraries relevant. Without the provincial government, our project would still be just a dream. It's the 20th year for Northern Lights, and with the government funding for the renovations, ours is the best system in Alberta."

Don Conrad proudly represented the Elk Point Regional Allied Arts Society, which he said was formed in June 2006. "With its formation came the perception that we needed a centre able to hold any function. With the town, the county, we went through many trials and tribulations. It's like ballroom dancing, two steps forward and three back. But Ray believed in and encouraged us. I couldn't begin to list all the volunteers from the last three years. It took a whole community to build this centre. I thank all who walked this journey with us. It's yours to enjoy today and for generations to come."

Bob Bezpalko spoke on behalf of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce, and said that group has been named Alberta's Chamber of the Year because of their EcoCentre project.

"We promote visitor attractions and our businesses, goods and services, as is our mandate. The EcoCentre honours our railway history and is on the exact location of the original station. We also plan to provide education on green building products, wind and solar energy, this is where we are different."

Fire Chief Ken Palamarek welcomed everyone "to Elk Point, the right place to be," and noted that "through the joint efforts and community spirit of the province, the town and the County of St. Paul, we have gathered together to design, finance and construct this facility. It is with eternal gratitude and pride that we, the members of the Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department thank you for this excellent facility. This building with its excellent modern equipment will allow us to better respond and serve the residents of the town and county and our Aboriginal friends in emergency situations."

Palamarek presented Premier Stelmach with a Fire Chief's helmet "to mark this very prestigious day. I trust your will cast a memorable thought of us when you glance at it, knowing that somewhere in the are, the members are providing necessary emergency services to those in need."

Town preparing for 50 Ave. upgrade

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

Elk Point town council took the next step toward upgrading 50 Ave. at last Monday's council meeting, when they approved the engineer's planned pre-qualification process for project tendering. The engineer will report back to council after June 24, by which time that process will be complete, prior to sending out the tender documents.

Council discussed the merits of cement versus galvanized iron culverts, noting that the heavy-duty concrete model would be double the price of the metal counterpart. The engineer has suggested laying one coat of pavement this year and the second in the spring of 2011.

Total cost of the project is $1.23 million, all but $105,000 of that amount coming from grants.

More Idol contestants needed for July 1

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

While most of the details for the July 1 Canada Day celebrations are in place, Canada Day Idol organizer Dee Pankiw is still looking for more Idol contestants.

As of last Wednesday evening, when the Canada Day committee held their final planning meeting for the series of events, Pankiw had only 12 of her hoped-for 20 contestants on the roster, and said that when she had contacted some of the contestants from previous years, "they had heard we were full up already." That rumour, she said, is not true, and registrations will still be taken on or before the June 25 deadline, unless she has 20 paid entries prior to that time. For more information, contact Pankiw at 780-724-2250.

Canada Day Idol is the last of four stage shows on July 1. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce will have a band on hand for their pancake breakfast, and during the afternoon, two separate stages will offer entertainment, with the youth- and young-adult-oriented Sound Dragons rocking the downtown area from the stage in the Servus Credit Union area and the traditional multicultural lineup of song and dance at the Alberta Centennial stage north of the A. G.

Ross Arena. Both of the shows will start immediately after the official flag raising and bilingual singing of O Canada at the Alberta Centennial stage.

Sound Dragons is the creation of Colin Bjorkman, who is both a talented musician and the principal of F. G. Miller High School. Sound Dragons concerts have been a popular event at FGM over the years, and the Canada Day version will showcase these bands and individuals to an even wider audience, starting at 1:15 p.m. on July 1.

Entertainers confirmed for the Centennial stage show include local dancers Madeline and Hannah Ludlage, Frog Lake's Star Hoop Dancers and a variety of singers from Elk Point and surrounding area, as well as the Country Playboys band.

The variety of stage entertainment offers Canada Day spectators the opportunity to sit back, relax and listen to their favourite kind of music, in the midst of a busy day of activities that also includes the parade, children's games, the Sixth Annual Bear Den Strength Challenge and the always-hilarious Farm Survival Challenge, with a glittering fireworks display to end the day as Elk Point celebrates Canada's birthday.

Ducky event for spray park

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

The Great Elk Point Duck Race brought a crowd to Elk Point's River Campground for an afternoon of fun. Faces painted and still wearing socks from the bounce house, youngsters enjoyed snow cones and cotton candy and joined the adults in flinging balls to dump an RCMP officer into the dunk tank as they waited for the big moment when hundreds of yellow, pink and blue ducks were poured into the North Saskatchewan.

Moments later, the boats that had flanked the bathtub-style flotilla captured the first ducks across the line and brought them ashore to determine the winners.

Norine Kim's duck was first across the line for $2,000, Allan Oszust's second for $1,000 and Allan Vipond's third for $500. The next 15 earned $50 each for Jason Pankiw, Brandon Holthe, Greg Lychak, Dale Zalaski, Shauna Harms, Jordan Schultz, Jerin Bezpalko, Gary Kozicky, Cathy Ockerman, Sandra Woytkiw, Jeffrey Young, Judy Wasylshen, Sheila Thompson, Melanie Kisters and Norine Cameron. Sadly, the first duck purchased came in 19th, leaving Nicole Goertzen out of the money.

Don't mess around with a clean hospital.

When a pandemic hits, clean hospital halls, countertops, linens, washrooms and equipment are the first line of defense. It might not seem like a glamorous job, but it's one we take great pride in. If it isn't done right, a patient could end up with a serious infection, a much longer stay in the hospital, or worse.

In the government's relentless effort to find money, they're talking about replacing provincial employees with companies that offer the lowest bid. Those companies will have to make compromises to make money. How can we compromise on safety?

WAY BACK WHEN...

Community tourism, contest wins, cabin

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND THE ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF JUNE 22 IN...

1985

Town council brought down their 1985 budget, with an 8.31 per cent drop in residential and a 7.46 per cent drop in non-residential mill rates. St. Paul cowboy Ted Hehr edged out local contenders Darrell Wickham and Maynard Swedgan for the bareback bronc riding trophy at Stoney Lake Stampede.

1990

Elk Point ratepayers faced a sizeable mill rate hike, with much of the increase due to a 13.3 per cent hike in the supplementary school requisition, over which the town had no control. Town council approved the use of Community Tourism Action Plan funding for part of the cost of a full-service campground in Elk Point, to fulfill one of the Action Plan priorities.

1995

Ray Mitsuing of Loon Lake, Sask., set a new track record when he won the Dewberry chuckwagon meet, shaving one hundredth of a second off the time set the previous year by hometown favourite Buddy Bensmiller. Elk Point hosted the District 4-H Heifer Show, where Elk first-year 4-Her Kelly Orr showed the reserve supreme champion, and Tim Havener and Peter Danyluk showed the grand and reserve champion co-calf pairs.

2000

Eight finalists from F. G. Miller High School saw their entries go on to national competition in the Elks and OORP Literary and Poster Contest, with Kali Cousins placing third at the national level. The recently formed North Saskatchewan Watershed Alliance, dedicated to the encouragement of community-based stewardship activities, met at Fort George and Buckingham House with groups and individuals interested in watershed conservation and management.

2005

Elk Point Crusaders saluted three F. G. Miller staff members who have dedicated a combined total of 75 years to the school, as custodian Alex Yarmuch and teacher Lawrence Pidluzny retired and principal Jim Hawkins moved on to take a position with St. Paul Alternate Education Consortium. Larry Kozicky of Larry's Picker Service, Red Deer, came back to Elk Point to transport the log cabin he had built in 1992 to its new home in the Iron Horse Trail staging area, to serve as the Elk Point Trail Riders headquarters.

Exam time

Thinking of all our young people who are writing their final exams at this time, our thoughts are with you. May we, your community, wish you all the best. That is, may your minds be at their best to remember what you need to remember to answer the questions in the best way on your exams. In other words, GOOD LUCK!

Doing your best reminds me of a story I found that happened in the Middle Ages. In a certain village during the Middle Ages, the village fathers called for a grand harvest celebration. Each family was asked to contribute a measure of their finest wine as part of the refreshments. A massive empty wine barrel was placed in the market square, and each family brought its contribution the evening before the celebration and poured it into the barrel.

The next day the wine was to be distributed as part of the hearty repast. But when the cask was tapped, out flowed only clear water. Each family had evidently decided that one pitcher of water would not be noticed in the wine mix, and therefore they had seen fit to give only water.

This story is really an "Oh, My!" type of story. The bottom line is that everyone "cheated" and they assumed they wouldn't get caught. Now why would they all cheat? One possible reason is that they didn't have any wine to share and didn't want to reveal this fact to the village fathers. Maybe they were health conscious, and decided water was better to serve rather than wine. Yes, I know, we could come up with several more possible reasons. Again let me state, the bottom line is that everyone "cheated" and they assumed they wouldn't get caught.

Studying for exams and taking exams can be likened to that Middle Ages story. When you don't have the information to give the correct answer on a test, it is tempting sometimes to cheat. Your assumption is you wouldn't get caught.

The Elk Point Review publishes a variety of opinions as a contribution to debate on matters of public concern. Unsigned editorials express the view of this newspaper's editorial board which includes the Publisher and the Editor. Signed pieces express the view of the individual writer.

EASTHOPE

Taking exams can be difficult. In Francis P. Robinson's book called "Effective Study", he mentions that the following principles have been found to help with these difficulties:

■ Several review times, rather than one lengthy session, should be scheduled.

■ A review time should be scheduled separately from study time.

■ A definite segment of the lesson should be assigned to each review time so the task looks possible of completion and does not lead to procrastination.

■ Finally, a student probably should not review for more than an hour or two the night before an examination.

The ten-day period before and during final examinations should be one in which you live normally. The extra review time may cut down somewhat on your recreation, but you should be careful to maintain usual habits of eating, exercise, and sleeping. Examinations demand a "clear head," which staying up half the night will not produce. Do not worry about examinations. The night before an examination is too late to learn much in preparation; review the material thoroughly and then relax.

You could now state that you have really a lot to review and that is a worry for you. Robinson states that you should review selectively. Review the important points, especially those you have trouble recalling. A good way to do this is to take the main headings in your notes or in the text and see if you can recite the main ideas from memory. Look up those items with which you have trouble and try reciting again. Or, guess what questions will be asked on each chapter and recite the main points from memory. The headings in the textbook, your class notes, and previous quizzes are all useful in this prediction of questions. Mere rereading is time-consuming and not very efficient. Reread sections only if, after looking at their headings, you have trouble remembering what they are about. Thus you will tend to review in a different way than when you first studied the lesson. Ask questions, and make up examples for each topic.

The next step is to take the exam. With all this preparation you will do well and again let me say GOOD LUCK to all students.

Elk Point Outreach School celebrates students' success

By Vicki Brooker
Review Staff

The entire student body of Elk Point Outreach School celebrated the end of a successful year on Saturday, with a gala graduation and awards ceremony in the beautifully decorated Fishing Lake Communiplex, complete with a miniature Eiffel Tower to complement their "Evening in Paris" theme.

Outreach School 'parents' Adrian Kiss and Becky Dunham welcomed proud families and friends to the event. "Three years ago, our school was born, to help students that don't fit in the traditional model of education. We were scared and excited," Kiss said.

"We call ourselves travelers on the highway of success," Dunham added. We make sure all of everyone's concerns are addressed."

"This is the way things are done in the outreach program, 'Outreach Grandfather' Jim Hawkins noted. "We include everybody. Back in the beginning, Becky and Adrian said that everyone is welcome."

He noted that last year's graduate from the Outreach school was Jonathan Durocher, and "when we have accomplishments like this, it warms my heart. I saw the Stanley Cup in this building, but this is even more exciting."

The graduates, he said, "have achieved a lot. What you have done will stand in good stead for the rest of your life. You people have become masters of your own destiny, captains of your rate... as you earned so many credits so quickly."

Rick Chalifoux, chairman of the Fishing Lake M tis Settlement proudly noted that three of the graduates, Adriuhana Faithful,

Skye Durocher and Jerrika Durocher-Bartel, were from that community, and thanked the parents for supporting their efforts, and the grads for successfully completing their courses, achieving their goals and "getting the job done. Each one of you will play a part in determining our future."

In her farewell speech, grad Brittany Bzowy said, "I first came to the Outreach School in November, looking for a second chance. I worked long hours in Grade 12 because money was more important to me than a diploma, and I just gave up. Becky and Mr. Kiss assured me I would get my diploma. They are educators, motivators and best friends. I thank them for leading me down the successful path to my goal."

Outreach has become "not just a school, it's a family," she added. "You've worried about us and our marks. For all your support, we thank you for becoming an important part of our lives."

Grad Cathy Olstad and 2009 grad Jonathan Durocher, MCs for the ceremony, introduced the entire student body, relating humorous incidents about each.

Dunham and Kiss were assisted by Kim Hudy, Logan Dumont and Kaitlin Orr, presented awards to Chantal McQuinn, Wilson Desjarlais, Christina Desjarlais, Sheridan Dunham, Julia Crevier, Paige Crevier, Nichole Laboucane, Monique Ouellette, Thomas Rieken, Knisa Rienks, Brittany Bzowy and Adriuhana Faithful.

Hawkins and Kiss presented graduation certificates to Adriuhana Faithful, Brittany Bzowy, Skye Durocher, Jerrika Durocher-Bartel and Cathy Olstad.

The celebration continued into the evening with a banquet and dance.

Kehewin campsite

The former provincial campsite at Kehewin was once again on council's agenda, with Mayor Parrish Tung again expressing the opinion that the town cannot justify taking on its operation without partnering. Coun. Dick Millar suggested inviting a representative of Alberta Parks and local County of St. Paul councillors to an upcoming meeting to discuss potential options.

Rezoning

Two rezoning bylaws received first reading. The first would rezone the two lots that are the site of the former fire hall to institutional, to permit use of the building as a church. The second rezones the site of the current Christian Community Church from institutional to R2 residential.

Animal control

Elk Point's animal control bylaw is currently under review, but a proposed change that would require owners of newborn animals to immediately license them did not sit well with council. The current bylaw does not require animals under the age of six months to be licensed, nor are these animal offspring counted in the maximum allowable number of pets per household.

Animals owned by visitors to town do not require an Elk Point license, but must abide by other regulations, such as leash laws.

The revised bylaw also prohibited the establishment of a kennel or cattery in a residential area, animals running at large, animals other than cats or dogs on parkland, and the keeping of livestock or poisonous snakes within town limits. The new bylaw would also raise the impound fee from $10 to $20. The bylaw was tabled for more review.

Fall election

Sept. 20 has been set as nomination day for the Oct. 18 general election, with an advance poll to be held Oct. 13 from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Myron Goyan was appointed as returning officer.

Mayor Parrish Tung and Couns. Bernice Capjack and Dwayne Yaremkevich announced that they intend to run for these positions again, while Coun. Mark Gormley said he would not seek a second term. Coun. Dick Millar is undecided at this time.

Heinsburg Community School proud of their 2010 graduate

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Valeen Jackson, a dedicated young woman who has amassed far more than the 100 required credits for high school graduation stood before family and friends on Friday night to accept her scroll.

"Since I've been at Heinsburg Community School, you are the first student to officially graduate," Principal Jill Greening told her. "We are so very proud of you."

Valeen, who remembers her first day of kindergarten and the excitement of going out and getting on the school bus, said that at the end of that year, even though her kindergarten teacher told her she could reach any goal she worked toward, "I never thought that I would be here today at my high school graduation."

In her Class of 2010 address, Valeen thanked "the people who helped me along the way," teachers past, Mrs. Jorritsma and Miss Mitchell, and present, Philip Ng and Glenn Spees, and school librarian Mrs. Goddard, as well as her mother, "for raising me to be a hardworking person. She is getting to be a best friend as well as a mom."

Although high school is now over, Valeen vowed her education "is not over, but will continue in the school called life. It has taken 22,275 hours to make it to graduation, a lot of time, but I think I have earned it."

St. Paul Education Regional Division Board chairman Darrell Younghans presented congratulatory gifts from MP Brian Storseth and MLA Ray Danyluk, and thanked the grad for choosing to attend Heinsburg Community School, and told her, "you now have the tools to make your dreams come true."

Superintendent of Schools Glen Brodziak added congratulations from the divisional office, and said he "could always count on a smile and a friendly hello" from Valeen when he visited the school.

Rosalie Halfe brought congratulations from the Chief of Goodfish Lake, and advised, "dream big, and do all you can to make your dreams come true."

"For 12 years, you have worked tirelessly toward graduation," June Jenkins said in her message to the graduate. "You've earned way over 100 credits, and dozens of awards. You've always seen a need and stepped up to volunteer, and have been excellent on the library team. With your drive and determination, you can reach any goal."

In closing the ceremonies at the Silver Star Restaurant in St. Paul, emcee and staff representative Philip Ng told Valeen, "we are proud of you and we wish you the best. We will always be there for you."

Principal Jill Greening congratulates Heinsburg graduate Valeen Jackson on her successful completion of the requirements for high school graduation.

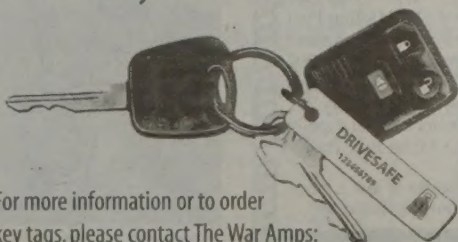

2010 Heinsburg grad Valeen Jackson passed the ceremonial school colours to Jasmine Paul, continuing a longstanding Heinsburg graduation tradition.

Congratulations!

Sports awards for Crusaders

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

F. G. Miller High School has a lot to brag about, and athletic director Suzanne Beckett was proud to announce at Thursday's Crusader Athletics Banquet that 112 athletes from the school had taken part in one or more sports this year.

"All of our teams this year, from golf to track and field, have found success. It is amazing to look back on the year and see how far we have come and now those St. Paul schools know we're a force to reckon with."

Beckett and co-host Laura Lilje listed a long line of accomplishments, ranging from SPAA successes to provincial competition, before they moved into the presentation of awards.

Eleven junior high students achieved the F. G.

Miller Standard of Excellence in Athletics. Grade 7 winners were Kassandra Moores and Vikram Sidhu. Grade 8 stars were Dayle Oster and Lisa Vallee.

Seven winners came from Grade 9: Leigha Bishop, Charly Frisby, Taylor Cochran, Janelle Letwin, Ashley Wozniak, Lindsey MacDonald and Waylon May.

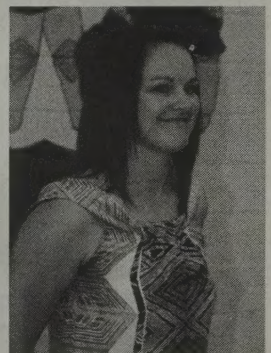

Four awards per grade were presented to senior high students, male and female most valuable athlete and male and female sportsmanship. In Grade 10, these went to most valuable athletes Kelsey Vinge and Josh Aarbo, with the sportsmanship awards going to Katie Maennchen and Wyatt Dewan.

Grade 11's most valuable athletes were Brendan Bishop and Caitlin Brooks, with the sportsmanship awards going to Brianna White and Greg Babcock.

Brett Lindquist was a double winner in the Grade 12 category, taking both most valuable male athlete and sportsmanship trophies. Alyx Aarbo won the most valuable female athlete award and Taylor Jenner the female sportsmanship award.

Beckett expressed thanks to the parents, grandparents, friends and family members for their support and encouragement, and to coaches and supervisors Melanie Sloan, Geoff Bishop, Sara Hochachk, Myles Quinney, Brian Poitras, Laura Lilje, Nicole MacKay, Kevin Casper, Colin Bjorkman, Dave Shankowski and Cheri Lindquist for their help with the sports program.

"As a coach, you get to see student sin a different light, out of their shells and are able to understand and get to know them better. You teach them life skills such as leadership, dependability, courage and team work. In turn, they teach you new levels of respect, patience, and how to be a better coach and mentor," said Beckett, who coaches junior and senior boys' volleyball, junior girls basketball and junior and senior high track.

FGM Phys. Ed teacher and sports director Suzanne Beckett is very proud of the high achieving Crusader athletes.

MS rider

Lynall Slywka competed in his eighth annual MS Bike Tour on June 12 and 13, and raised over $4,200 in pledges for the cause, an amount that he says is still growing as more supporters come forward. This year's event was "the biggest I've ever seen, with 1,900 riders and 600 volunteers. It's unbelievable how well run it is," Slywka says.

Summer brings reading program to the library

By DAPHNE SCHNURER
Librarian

It won't be long now until the 2010 Summer Reading Club gets underway at the Elk Point Municipal Library.

This year's theme is "Destination Jungle," and the program is full of exciting activities for the youngsters who journey to exciting and exotic places through the pages of books.

Drop down to the library for more information and to find out how to register your children for the program, which will keep them reading all summer long and help them to become lifelong readers. They won't want to miss the first session, which starts on July 6.

And remember - the library is a great place to visit on a hot summer day. Pick out a book or two to enjoy on a lazy summer afternoon while you cool off at the library.

Enjoy your summer!

THANK YOU

SHYMKIW, Mary
(nee Bech)

The family of Mary Shymkiw would like to extend sincerest gratitude to each and everyone who have given us support by the way of heartfelt condolences, words of kindness, flowers, sympathy cards, memorial donations, food, visits with us, attending the service and holding us in our thoughts and prayers during this difficult time in the loss of our beloved wife, mother and baba.

Sincere thanks are extended for the care providers at the Elk Point Health Care Centre and Dr. D. Ramful.

We would like to send a special thank you to Reverend Father Vasyly Nykyforuk for officiating to the Divine Liturgy and Funeral Service.

A sincere thank you to Don and Debbie Gulayec for the eulogy and photography.

The support and help of the pallbearers, flag bearers and cross bearers and the Royal Purple Ladies for the beautiful lunch.

A special thank you to John and Caroline Yewchin for all the extra help, support and effort given in our time of sorrow.

Harry Shymkiw, Marshall (Agnes) Morozuk, Gladys (Jack) Hamil and Families.

WITH RESPECT I REFLECT

Some call it work
I call it an honor.
To stand beside,
Or hold the hand
Of a man who gave so much
And I could give so little.
However, who could handle
A Momma Bear
When her cub is there!
The man of whom I speak
Will be addressed
As none other than - "Dr. Jim"
Who blazed a trail
No trees will ever still.

By DOUG BASSETT
Review Sports

A lot of great action this past weekend for the Midget Sox who traveled to Edmonton, lots and lots of highlights to tell you about, but we only have room in this week's addition to tell you that the Sox won two out of three games, winning over the Sherwood Park Athletics and the East Park Orioles and losing to the South Jasper Place Jays in extra innings. Next week we will have a full story along with highlights from some of our other younger teams who just played in the Lakeland League finals this past week. To be continued!

Last week's answer to: "The game of baseball is a clean, straight game, and it summons to its presence everybody who enjoys clean, straight athletics. It furnishes amusement to the thousands." - William Howard Taft.

Frog Lake families honour 12 graduates

By SHAUNA BURKE

Review Contributor

Chief Napewaw Comprehensive (CFCS) School Graduation ceremony held Thursday evening at Frog Lake was a family celebration, with community members of all ages coming out to honor the accomplishments of twelve graduates.

After a side show and a delicious feast, the graduates dressed in their caps and gowns and paraded in, following leaders and elders from the community around the room and onto the stage. Each of the 12 graduates was introduced to the audience as they took their seats on stage and then Hailey Paul and Victor Jackson took the stage to deliver the valedictorian speeches.

"We are here this evening to celebrate a turning point in the lives of this remarkable group of people," began Paul in her speech to the audience. "The moment has come to venture out on our own into the real world and peruse our passions ... Before we take that final step, I want to thank our parents and teachers for not giving up on us."

She said that the education and friendships shared by the graduates are precious gifts that will help them take the important next step. Paul concluded her speech with an anonymous quote, "The fireworks begin here today. Each diploma is a lighted match and each one of you is a fuse."

Wayne Faithful spoke on for the Chief and Council.

"On behalf of the community Frog Lake, I would like to express our sincere congratulations to the graduates of 2010, this is your special day," said Faithful. "Your education represents a difficult achievement and commitment. It sets an example for those yet to graduate."

Next the graduates had an opportunity to give back, as they presented special family and friends with roses. Following that was the Eagle Feather and Pouch presentation. Speeches and celebrations continued on into the evening.
